

Admission Requirements, UBC Undergraduate Medical Program:

- No preference is given to any particular degree program.
- In order to apply, students must complete at least 90 transferable credits of post-secondary studies including the courses below, with a minimum GPA between 3.0 and 3.33* on all university-level courses attempted. Achieving the minimum average does not guarantee acceptance into the program. UBC weighs prerequisite core courses and the last 60 credits more heavily than other courses.
- Required prerequisite courses (or equivalents) by April 30, 2012.
- * Medical College Admission Test or MCAT must be written by all applicants. It covers verbal reasoning, writing skills, physical sciences and biology.
- MCAT should be written in 3rd year, so if you do not do well you can re-write. All applicants must take the MCAT and request that their results be released to UBC.
