

Persistent links direct students to specific full-text journal documents found in our research databases. These links are stable, and can be accessed from both on and off campus. These links could be used for e-reserves, electronic reading lists or incorporating into Blackboard and other online course resources.

1. From the results list, click on the "Version HTML" link.

The screenshot shows a search results page with a header "RÉSULTATS DE RECHERCHE". Below it, a message states "Votre recherche sur 'chat' a généré 3127 résultats". There are navigation controls for "Résultats de 1 à 50" and "Afficher 50 résultats par page". The main content area shows a search result for "Italiens 2008/1 (n° 12) ARTICLE DE REVUE" by Michel Feuillet. The title is "LE BESTIAIRE DE L'ANNONCIATION : L'HIRONDELLE, L'ESCARGOT, L'ÉCUREUIL ET LE CHAT". Below the title, there is a snippet: "...hirondelle, l'escargot, l'écureuil et le chat Michel Feuillet Université Lyon III Les treize ...". At the bottom of the snippet, there are three links: "[Résumé]", "Version HTML" (circled in red), and "[Version PDF]". A box on the left labeled "Version HTML" has an arrow pointing to the circled "Version HTML" link.

2. Scroll to the bottom of the page or click on "Pour citer cet article".

The screenshot shows the full article page. The title is "Métaphores animales et animaux symboliques" and the article title is "Le bestiaire de l'Annonciation : l'hirondelle, l'escargot, l'écureuil et le chat". The author is "Michel Feuillet" from "Université Lyon III". On the right side, there is a "Raccourcis" (Shortcuts) menu with three items: "Plan de l'article", "Résumé de l'article", and "Pour citer cet article" (circled in red). A box on the left labeled "Pour citer cet article" has an arrow pointing to the circled link in the menu. The article text begins with "Les treize versets du texte évangélique de l'Annonciation[1] ne font allusion à aucun animal – qu'il ait une réalité diégétique ou une fonction symbolique. Outre".
