The screenshot shows the ProQuest CBCA Complete search interface. At the top, the ProQuest logo is on the left, and 'CBCA Complete' is in large orange text. Below it are links for 'Search', 'Advanced', 'Publications', and 'About'. A search bar contains the text 'children and television and violence' with a search icon on the right. Above the search bar are links for 'Modify search', 'Advanced search', and 'Recent searches'. Below the search bar are checkboxes for 'Full text' (checked) and 'Peer reviewed'. To the right of the search bar is a 'Search tips' link. Below the search bar is a list of search results. The first result is 'Remapping Vancouver: Composing Urban Spaces in Contemporary Asian Canadian Writing' by Glenn Deer, published in Canadian Literature 199 (Winter 2008): 118-144,231. The abstract text is: '...authority of the children who are witnesses ...daughter witnesses this violence, her initial love ...screens of local televisions. The systematic'. Below the abstract are links for 'Cited by (3)' and 'References (34)'. At the bottom of the result are three links: 'Citation/Abstract' (with a document icon), 'Full text' (with a document icon), and 'Where Can I Get This?' (with a document icon).
