Sociology of Development – The Global South
COURSE DESCRIPTIVE TITLE

OFFICIAL COURSE OUTLINE:

This is a cross-listed course. Please refer to SOC 250 for the official course outline.

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION:

This course is an introduction to the sociology of international development, looking at the nature and development of the global south (the largest part of the global social system), its relationship to the global north, and major explanations of underdevelopment. The key role of Latin America in the origins and transformation of the world system is examined, as well as its importance in the construction of development theories and strategies. Case studies from around the world, and particularly from Latin America, are used to critically evaluate development issues (e.g. gender, environment, health, education, fair trade, etc.) and the alternative paths of development.

Note: This course is offered as SOC 250 and GDS 250. Students may take only one of these for credit.

PREREQUISITES:	None. SOC 101 or GDS 100 recommended. Note: As of September 2013, completion of 18 university-level credits or one of SOC 101, GDS 100, or LAS 100 will be required.
