European Diplomacy and Crisis: 1919-1939
COURSE DESCRIPTIVE TITLE

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION:

This course examines the international relations between European states from the end of the Great War to the beginning of the Second World War. This period witnessed the conflict between the illusionary hopes of the democratic victors of the Great War set against the revisionist ambitions of the dictators Mussolini, Stalin, Franco and Hitler. In a context of repeated economic crises, heightened social expectations and political discord, European statesmen pursued often divergent foreign policies that seemed to lead inescapably to war. When British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain raised his 'piece of paper' and proclaimed a lasting peace had been established in September, 1938, it was the last rhetorical gasp of an illusion that the Great War could be the 'war to end all wars'.
