CALENDAR DESCRIPTION:

This course is an introduction to the sociology of international development, looking at the nature and development of the global south (the largest part of the global social system) and the major explanations of underdevelopment. Among the case studies used to critically evaluate the alternative paths of development there is an emphasis on examples from Latin America. It will be of special interest to those planning to teach, to anyone hoping to work in or travel to the developing World, to those interested in Canada's position in the world, and to anyone concerned about globalization.

This course is offered as SOC 250 and GDS 250. Students may take only one of these for credit.
