LEARNING OBJECTIVES / GOALS / OUTCOMES / LEARNING OUTCOMES:
- become a critical consumer of social work research
- use the Internet for retrieving current information
- understand the forms of social work research including single case study design, experimental design, descriptive design, needs assessment, and program evaluation
- conceptualize, design, implement, and disseminate social work research.

Specific Objectives:

1. discuss the scientific method and its applicability to social work research methods.
2. demonstrate competency in using basic research concepts
3. discuss a variety of research methods and their application to social work practice
4. describe the steps involved in conducting a research project
5. describe and discuss needs assessments, program evaluation, experimental design, and program development in terms of their relationship to social work research.
6. describe and discuss action, conscientizing, and participatory research and their relationship to social work practice.
7. assess and critically analyze social work research studies
8. recognize the influence of social work research on social work policy and practice
9. identify the procedures required and identify the steps in the design of social work research
11. formulate, conduct, and write a literature review.
12. demonstrate the ability to be both culturally and gender sensitive in the design and implementation of research.
12. use APA 4th edition as a form and style guide, particularly with references to citations.
13. use electronic mail and the world wide web to gather information and communicate.

METHODS:
The course will be conducted in lecture/discussion style with seminar presentations, class discussion, and small group activities as indicated.

PRIOR LEARNING ASSESSMENT RECOGNITION (PLAR):
Credit can be awarded for this course through PLAR (Please check:) ☑ Yes ☐ No

METHODS OF OBTAINING PLAR:
All SWHS 3rd and 4th year courses (with the exception of SOWK 430 Field Work) are open for PLAR. Follow UCFV and Department PLAR process.
