LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Describe two or more methods by which actors create dramatic characters;
- Explain how research can contribute to the creation of a dramatic character;
- Analyze a dramatic script in order to identify information about a character, his/her relationships to other characters, and how his/her circumstances change over the course of a play's plot;
- Apply knowledge gathered from script analysis to the enactment of a dramatic character;
- Engage a set of value systems, life experiences, and/or life circumstances different from their own to inform characterization and scene development;
- Observe body language and speech variations to recognize subtexts in human behavior and interactions;
- Apply knowledge of basic vocal techniques to the performance of a dramatic scene;
- Demonstrate control over use of gestures, blocking, and body language in the performance of a dramatic scene;
- Respond to critique from self, peers, and instructor constructively, using critique to improve performance
- Contribute effectively to a creative ensemble by fulfilling the actor's responsibilities to the rehearsal process;
