Think you may qualify for acceptance to the BFA degree without a portfolio review?

Contact the BFA Academic Advisor to discuss further. Review the requirements in case you are asked to submit a portfolio.

What should I include in my portfolio?

10 to 12 Pieces Original work At least three different media	Your portfolio should include a combination of work in more than one medium. Whatever work you choose, be sure to highlight variety in subject matter, diversity in techniques, and the development of an underlying concept. Here are some tips on types of media to consider: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Traditional visual artists or designers could submit work in media such as painting, drawing, print media, sculpture, collage, or fibre-based works, including garments or costumes. • Applicants working in traditional or analog media should submit digital photographs of completed works. • Artists focusing on digital media or performance might include animation, video, video recordings of performances, audio recordings, photography, or web design. Guidelines for submission of digital files are below. • Artists working in text-based areas might include work samples such as essays, critical responses, screenplays or scripts, reviews of a personal dramatic performance or digital recordings of a performance.
