The annual Orange Shirt Day Every Child Matters on September 30th opens the door to global conversation on all aspects of Indian residential schools. It is an opportunity to create meaningful discussion about the effects and legacy of the schools, a discussion all Canadians can tune into and create bridges with each other for truth & reconciliation. September 30th was chosen for Orange Shirt Day – Every Child Matters because it is the time of year in which children were historically taken from their homes and their families to Indian residential schools, and because it is an opportunity to set the stage for anti-racism and anti-bullying policies for the coming school year. It is an opportunity for Indigenous peoples, local governments, schools and communities to come together in the spirit of reconciliation and hope for generations of children to come.

Why is Orange Shirt Day Important?
Orange Shirt Day honors residential school survivors and provides an opportunity to remember the children who did not survive. Every September 30th people across Canada wear orange shirts as part of their act of reconciliation, remembrance, and recognition.
